PENAL FARM MAN ASKS FOR PAROLE

CHARLES L. CUSHING, WHOSE HOME IS NEAR KENDALL-
VILLE, PLEADS HIS OWN CASE
BEFORE STATE BOARD OF PARDONS—SHOT A HOBO WHO RAIDED HIS MELON PATCH.

MAN OF MANY SORROWS

Charles L. Cushing, a man of many sorrows, pleaded his own case before the state board of pardons Tuesday, having come to Indianapolis from the penal farm at Putnamville, where he,
as a "trustee" from the Michigan City prison, is aiding in erecting the new buildings. He was sentenced to the state prison on a manslaughter charge
last year, after remaining in a county jail seventy-eight days, and was released, he said, from the state prison to go to Putnamville, a little more than four weeks after he had entered the institution. Cushing's story of hard luck was supplemented before the board by an appeal for clemency
by Cushing's brother, Dr. G. M. Cushing, of Chicago.

Here are a few of the things that happened to Cushing, leading up to his conviction of the shooting of a hobo who, with other hoboes, was stealing melons out of the Cushing patch near Kendallville, Ind.

A Little Hard Luck.

Floods caused the loss of his celery
crop.

His greenhouse caved in.
Negroes stole corn from his grain-
aries and fields.

Vagrants stole melons from his patch, finally getting all his year's crop.

He took aim at the bottom of a ditch up the side of which a hobo was climbing, and shot with a 10-gauge shotgun to scare a crowd of hoboes which was raiding his place. One young hobo lost his footing and slipped back into bottom of the ditch,
just as the gun was discharged.

A few shots struck the youth, one entering his lung, from which a hemorrhage set in and he died.

A young prosecutor made out an affidavit charging first degree murder and the grand jury brought in an indictment charging first degree murder.

Cushing's lodge brothers seemed to have a spite against him, he said, and the judge would not admit him to bail. He laid in jail seventy-eight days before his trial.

At the conclusion of the trial the judge instructed the jury to bring in a verdict of guilty to manslaughter, having neglected to give the jury
any blank forms for not guilty votes.

Board Members Impressed.

These and many other tales of the hard luck that had pursued him were told the pardon board in amplified form by the "trustee." The board members seemed to be impressed with the description of the trial and with the copy of the judge's instructions to the jury. Judge A. D. Thomas, president of the board, said the judge seemed to have gone out of his province in the case.—Indianapolis News.

JACOB KNAUER SUCCUMBS TO A SHORT ILLNESS

Jacob Knauer, 38 years old, died Wednesday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock at his home northwest of the city on the Rockville road, after a week's illness of Bright's disease. He had been in ill health for the past several years but his condition had been serious only a few days.

Mr. Knauer was a native of Putnam county all his life, having been reared in the northwest part of the county. He was one of the most respected residents of his neighborhood and made many friends through his kind ways and other excellent traits of character. Mr. Knauer was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clem Knauer, who are well known to the people of the west and north parts of the county.
His mother, a widow and two children,
Kenneth, 12 years old, and Floyd, age
10, survive.

For the past ten years Mr. Knauer has made his home in and around Greencastle. He was a devoted Christian, being a member of the Christian church of this city and a reliable church work. Mr. Knauer also took an active part in lodge work of the city. He was a member of the Moose, Red Men, Odd Fellows and Rebecca lodges of this city. The office of trustee of the Moose lodge was held by Mr. Knauer at the time of his death.

The funeral will be held at the home Friday morning at 10:30 o'clock.
Elder Airhart and Rev. Hootman of the Christian church will have charge of the services. The burial will be in the Forest Hill cemetery.

OLD MAN ASKS $5,000 DAMAGES

JESSE T. PLUNKETT, AGE 70 YEARS, WHO RESIDES NEAR BARNARD, ALLEGES THAT HE WAS INJURED PERMANENTLY
BECAUSE OF NEGLIGENCE OF DRIVER FOR A HAVENS' BROS.
PRODUCE TRUCK.

THE ACCIDENT IN 1912

Alleging that he was permanently injured in an accident on the public highway between Roachdale and Ladoga on December 9, 1912, when the horse he was driving scared at a huckster truck, owned by Havens' Bros., of Ladoga, and turned over his buggy, Jesse G. Plunkett, age 70 years, is suing the Havens' Bros., company for $5,000 damages.

The case, which was filed in the Montgomery county court, was brought here on a change of venue.
Trial of the case was begun in the Putnam Circuit Court this morning.
Harvey Fine, and Marion Clodfelter of Crawfordsville and William Suther-lin of this town are attorneys for the old man, while C. H. Jones and John B. Murphy of Crawfordsville, Robert Marks of Ladoga, and Tays & Murphy of this town, are attorneys for the Produce company.

Plunkett, in his complaint, alleges that while he was driving along the road a large truck owned by Havens' Bros., and used as a huckster wagon,
which was driven by Thomas Gregory, approached him. That when his horse began to scare at the truck, which was loaded with poultry, Gregory did not stop but continued driving the truck toward him. That the horse scared and turned over his buggy permanently injuring him about the shoulders, back and head. He alleges that at the time of the accident he was earning from $2 to $3 a day but that since that time he has been unable to work.

The attorneys for the Produce company allege that the horse driven by Mr. Plunkett began to scare long before the truck reached the rig, and that the driver, immediately seeing the horse was scaring, drove to the side of the road and stopped. They allege that the driver was in no way responsible for the accident.

ANOTHER G. H. S. TEACHER RESIGNS

MISS FRANCES DOAN, WHO HAS BEEN AT THE HEAD OF THE ENGLISH DEPARTMENT OF
THE HIGH SCHOOL FOR PAST
THREE YEARS, TENDERS RES-IGNATION TO SCHOOL BOARD
ON WEDNESDAY — RESIG-NATION TO TAKE EFFECT
FRIDAY.

MISS WALLS TO SUCCEED

Miss Frances Doan, who has been at the head of the English department of the Greencastle high school for the past three years, tendered her resignation to the city school board Wednesday afternoon. She is the third instructor in the local high school who recently has resigned. The resignation will take effect at the close of the present school work.

Miss Lela Walls, teacher of the fifth and sixth grades of the third ward public school, has been chosen as Miss Doan's successor and will take charge of the high school classes Monday morning. She is deserving of the promotion and her selection has proven very satisfactory with a large circle of friends in Greencastle. She has had nine years' experience as a teacher and has spent much time recently in preparation for high school work.

Courses in professional work in Columbia University, New York, and the Indiana State Normal College have been completed by Miss Walls. In the professional preparation Miss Walls has three credits in History of Education, three credits in Methods and Practice, and two credits in Observation. Other than her professional training she has five credits in Literature from DePauw University, seventeen credits in the same course from the Indiana State Normal College, and one credit from Columbia University.

Miss Walls has proven to be one of the most popular instructors of the schools of this city during the time she has taught at the third ward school. Her successor at the third ward school has not yet been chosen by the school board.

Other teachers of the high school, who resigned their positions during the past few weeks were Principal Murray A. Dalman and Talmadge O.
Dillon, mathematics instructor and athletic coach. The former accepted a position at the head of the mathematics department in the Manuel Training high school at Indianapolis.
Mr. Dillon gave up his work here in order to accept a position teaching in the Dallas, Ore., high school.

Miss Susie Talbott, who has assisted in Miss Florence Parker's room at the second ward for the past several months, will take Miss Walls' place in the fifth and sixth grade room at the third ward. Miss Talbott resides in this city. She taught in the Anderson public school last year.

CITY CLERK TO REGISTER ALL THE DOGS OF CITY

Tomorrow morning, City Clerk M.
S. Miller will begin his work registering the dogs of the city. A city ordinance recently passed by the council requires that all the dogs of the city must be registered by the clerk and that each animal running the streets of the city must wear a license tag.
The license tags were shipped this afternoon from an Indianapolis firm and will be received by the city clerk
Friday morning.

The new ordinance will be in effect on and after April first. The city law provides that a description of the dogs, as to color, breed and sex, be given the city clerk. When the dogs are registered the clerk will issue tags, which are to be worn on the dog's collar.

All the dogs running loose on the streets after this ordinance is in effect will be shot by Marshal Cooper and the police officers.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hirt and Capt.
W. P. Wimmer, who have been spending the winter in Florida, arrived home this afternoon.

AN APPRECIATION OF MRS. JENNIE A. RILEY.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Greencastle feels the loss of a faithful and valued member, Mrs. Jennie A. Riley. When its corresponding and recording secretary, she served efficiently and with a willing spirit, assisted in its various activities. Here, as elsewhere, was felt the helpfulness of her gentle, loving presence.

A community can scarcely realize the beneficial influence that radiated from a devoted, unselfish pure life. But when that life is withdrawn the value of its beauty, and blessing in its varied ministries is more clearly seen.

Mrs. Riley's obedience and loyalty to the requirements of Christian ideals was persuasive and will continue to be an inspiration to the community.

Her sisters of the W. C. T. U. will cherish the memory of the endearing traits of her Christian character.

MRS. J. P. D. JOHN,
MRS. MARY G. WEBB,
MISS DELILAH MILLER.

At the recent meeting of the W. C. T. U. the department of Literature and Press had charge of the program.

The evil tendency of modern fiction was the subject of discussion. "Books have fallen from their high estate in the regard of the very class which once lent its eloquence to exalt them."

Instead of directing the immature to books as sure guides and helpers, these former advocates sound continual warnings against any but the most wise and discriminating use of books.

The fiction habit is rapidly growing. The production of fiction of the magazine class, including stories in book form, is almost incredibly large, and has increased ten times faster than the population, which means many more readers who each read more than in former times.

Much of this fiction is vicious in its tendency. It makes light of subjects sacred and essential to right living. It is full of misinformation and false statements of facts on all variety of subjects. It paints dissipation not only as normal, but as pleasant and as a feature of success. It portrays the home without sanctity, security or permanence. It shows the business man as shrewd, unscrupulous and gaining riches by any means.

riches being presented as equivalent to success.

Readers of this fiction usually are, by reason of youth ignorance or inexperience of life, particularly open to injury. They are unused to weighing, testing, or analyzing what they read, and are especially subject to unconscious bias. They do not recognize the origin of the models on which their lives are being formed. Their ideas of right and wrong are confused, false standards of life and conduct are accepted, they become familiar with vice that is not repulsive, with sin that neither stains nor calls for expiation, innocence is lost, for this kind of association with the course, vicious, and unchastity is certain defilement.

SEEKS TO DESTROY POISON IVY IN U.S.

Campaign Against Noxious Plant is Started by Professor William Mansfield of New York.

TELLS OF ITS GREAT DANGERS

Favors Exhibition Gardens, Where Public Can Study It and Learn How to Kill It.

New York.—The first step in a campaign to eradicate poison ivy plants, the heavy growth of which even in suburbs of this city yearly endangers the health of thousands of persons, is made in an article by Prof. William Mansfield, of Columbia University, in the current issue of the Journal of the New York Botanical Garden. Prof. Mansfield, in describing the poison ivy plant and its power to poison, either directly or indirectly, urges that immediate efforts be made to prevent the spread of its growth in the local parks and suburbs.

"The poison ivy, 'Rhus radicans,' is one of the most widely distributed plants in the eastern United States," according to Prof. Mansfield. "Every year, because of its hardness, this poisonous plant becomes more widely distributed, and by reason of its attractiveness many persons, though aware of its nature, allow it to cover their old fences and hedges, which otherwise would be unsightly."

"Once the poison ivy seed enters the soil it thrives, growing in three forms: as a trailing vine, a climbing vine, or as a shrub, capable of afflicting most persons with an intense irritation and swelling of the skin, which, though seldom fatal, is extremely annoying and liable to weaken the entire system. Some persons must come in direct contact with the three-lobed leaf of the plant to become poisoned, while others are so susceptible that a few of the pollen grains, sometimes from a distant plant, upon the skin produces irritation."

"The first effect of the poisoning is a mild skin irritation, which, when the sufferer rubs or scratches, becomes worse. The friction breaks the outer skin, the poison enters the inner and more sensitive tissues, and the suffering increases accordingly."

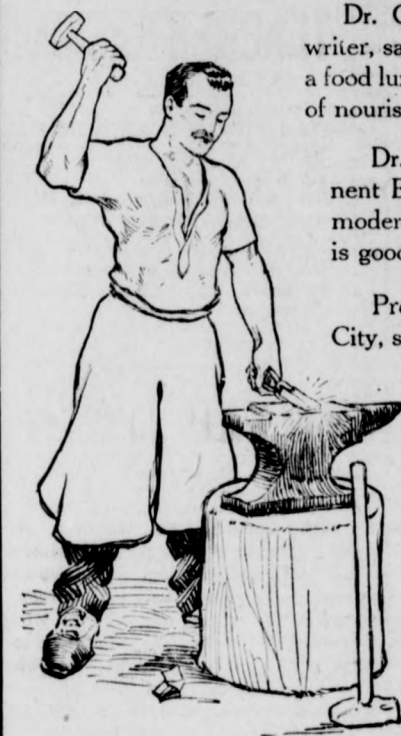

"The secondary effect causes a swelling of the skin, followed by blisters, formed by the infiltration of water between the outer and inner layers of the skin. When perforated, that water touches an unaffected part, which in turn becomes poisoned."

"To cure the poisoning and counteract its effect, the affected parts should be rubbed with a paste of bicarbonate of soda, which finally should be left on the irritated part as a thick mass, to be moistened as the water evaporates. Again the irritation may be washed with strong alcohol, which sanitizes the fatty or resinous nature

Beer for the Man Who Toils

Beer is a beverage peculiarly adapted to the needs of the working man. It performs the twofold duty of rebuilding the exhausted muscles and of furnishing wholesome relaxation to the nervous system strained almost to the breaking point by the monotony of the day's toil.

Eminent scientists thus endorse pure beer:

Dr. Cukor, German medical writer, says: "Beer is not merely a food luxury but a valuable source of nourishment."

Dr. Mortimer Granville, eminent English practitioner: "The moderate consumption of beer is good for the system."

Prof. Willis King, Kansas City, says: "I have prescribed beer for forty years and always found direct and beneficial results."

Indiana
Brewers
Association

of the poison of the poison ivy plant and renders it harmless. This treatment proves efficacious only during the first stage of the poisoning.

"Thousands of persons are poisoned every year by this plant, but still it is allowed to grow, practically unhindered. For several years efforts have been made to exterminate the plant from the New York Botanical Garden, where it grows in tremendous quantities, and within a few years this will be accomplished. To eradicate the poison ivy plant in any of its forms, however, their roots must be dug up and the area which they occupied be gone over year after year."

Prof. Mansfield urges that exhibition gardens of poison ivy be arranged in the parks, where the public may study its appearance and the methods for its eradication. When all are familiar with the plant, steps may then be taken to assure its extermination from the entire country.

NEW PUZZLE FOR SCIENTISTS

Strange Discovery by Farmer Who Went for Spring Water.

Mayfield, Ky.—While filling a quart bottle with water from a spring near here, a farmer discovered what he thought was a horse hair wiggling in the bottle of clear water. He had filled the bottle to drink, but on seeing the wiggler decided he would examine it with a magnifying glass. The hair proved to be a tiny snake.

When placed in a shallow plate of water for examination it would strike at a toothpick held near its head, and acted in other ways like larger snakes. Its color was that of clear water. It is believed to be a species of the cabbage snake, and probably as poisonous. Its length is two and one-half inches.

Domestic Opinion.

Old Hubby—Sensible woman ought to marry, I think.
Young Wife—You'd be a bachelor if that were the rule.

Was Once the Home of General "Tippecanoe" Harrison.

Owensville, Ind.—On the farm of Miller Montgomery, one mile south of this city, stands an abandoned two-story frame house, one hundred years old—a building that sheltered Gen. William Henry Harrison on many occasions when he was governor of Indiana.

Although only a short distance from the road, the house is almost hidden from view by trees. The century's wear and tear have had little effect on the house because it is kept in good repair. It contains a good flight of stairs by which visitors ascend to the two large rooms above, where many articles of furniture in use one hundred years ago can be seen standing about in careless disorder.

The house was built by Mr. Montgomery's father, Walter Crockett Montgomery, and the present owner was born in it.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

There is an old saying that "Nature cures, the doctor takes the fee," but as everyone knows you can help nature very much and thereby enable it to effect a cure much less time than is usually required. This is particularly true of colds. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy relieves the lungs, liquefies tough mucus and aids in its expectoration, allays the cough and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. It is pleasant to take and harmless as it contains no narcotic. Obtainable everywhere. adv.

THE SMALLEST THING

An Ion Has Been Measured By a College Professor.

The smallest thing in the world has been discovered. It is an ion. For a long time the atom held this place, being so small that it could not be seen with the most powerful magnifying glass. The next smallest thing was a molecule, made up of atoms of various elements. Thus a molecule of water is made up of one atom of oxygen and two atoms of hydrogen.

Now we hear that the atom may be broken up into fragments called ions. The ion is both the smallest quantity of electricity capable of existing in a free state. It is so small that if enough electricity to generate the hydrogen in a toy balloon were to be obtained by a counting out the ions, 100 to the minute, the task would occupy 100,000,000 persons 4,000,000 years.

And yet these ions have been isolated and measured in the laboratory of Prof. R. A. Milliken of the University of Chicago. Professor Milliken has modified and improved upon the methods of previous experiments. Whereas those used for their experiments a fog of tiny water particles, whose average size and weight could be calculated, as well as the average electric charge on each, Milliken isolates and observes a droplet of oil, which he controls and experiments upon as easily as one might measure and test a block of steel. This droplet serves as a trap for flying ions, the occasion of which to the drop is at once detected by a sudden change in its behavior.

Care of the Pig

No animal will stand as poor treatment as the hog and thrive as well, and it can be said with the same degree of truth that no animal will respond more quickly under good treatment.

To have a pig make a hog of himself in the shortest possible time with the least cost must be the aim of the successful swine grower. This pig of a few weeks, from the very first nourishment it obtains other than through the mother sow, must have feed both of the right quality and quantity. He must start right and then things run smoothly if he is kept in his straight and narrow way.

A pig, it has been well said, is like a car standing on the track. It takes a good deal to start it but when once started it keeps going. Let it stop and all new energy has to be applied again to get it to move.

There are two main things in the care of a young pig which I have found must be insisted upon in order to make him a profitable two-hundred-pounder in the shortest possible time, at the least cost. The first is never let him become "paddy." The result is that he will be as lively as any, eat just as well and feel just as well, in fact he will do anything you would naturally expect of a pig except grow. By his overeating he has pushed his diaphragm towards his vital organs and his digestive organs assume abnormal proportions, and he is the hog which, when crated and placed on the scales on market day, will weigh the least. The other main point to be insisted upon is never let your pig get the scours, for a scouring pig, for the time being, is as bad off as your paddy one. Weigh a six-week-old pig and he tips the beam, we will say, at thirty-five pounds. Let him have the scours badly for ten days and in nine times out of ten he will not gain a pound. He has simply stood still and he is ever after, other things being equal, ten days behind the others. Yes, ten days behind when market day comes. This difference in the last ten days of a hog's life is a large per cent of the profit, for remember, it is not the difference of ten days on a thirty-five pound pig, but the difference of ten days on a two-hundred pound hog.

We lay special stress on these two points of a young pig's life, for we have found by experience that they are very essential in the swine business and yet the two often are overlooked.

Farm Garden Pointers

Let the rows run north and south; this gives the most sun exposure.

Set the strawberries in rows four feet apart and two feet in the row.

The spring is the time when asparagus roots are usually set, though the work may be done in the fall.

Unless one is gardening on a large scale it is cheaper to buy cabbage plants for early crop than to grow them.

Seed in well-prepared soil which has been compacted will germinate much quicker than where the soil is too coarse and loose.

Sow radish seeds in the same row with some slow-germinating seeds. They will come up in a few days and mark the rows for cultivation.

The larvae of the May beetle, the common white grub, is the worst insect enemy of the strawberry, and breeds largely in the grass land.

Root crops should be planted together, as well as vine crops, such as cucumbers, etc., also tomatoes, peppers, eggplant and the like. Never plant melons near squashes or pumpkins.

For shingles alone, 750 million feet of timber is cut in that part of the state of Washington which lies west of the Cascades.

DOUBLY PROVEN.

Greencastle Readers Can No Longer Doubt the Evidence.

This Greencastle citizen testified long ago. Fold of quick relief—of undoubted benefit.

The facts are now confirmed. Such testimony is completed,—the evidence conclusive.

It forms convincing proof of merit. George W. Wood, farmer, Greencastle, says: "For the past ten or twelve years I had disordered kidneys. I suffered from severe pains in my back and about four years ago I was in bad shape. I was hardly able to bear the pain in my back and a too frequent desire to pass the kidney secretions caused me annoyance. I finally got Doan's Kidney Pills at Jones, Stevens Co.'s Drug store and less than one box relieved me. I am now well."

Confirmed Proof. Later Mr. Wood said: "Doan's Kidney Pills are a fine remedy. I will confirm all I said in my former public statement, recommending them."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Wood had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y. —adv.

From Homeless Lad To Judge's Bench

Michigan Man in Rapid Rise from Poverty to Exalted Position at Hands of the People.

Cadillac, Mich.—Fifteen years ago Wexford's County probate judge disposed of Fred M. Breen, a 10-year-old boy, whose greatest misfortune had been the death of his parents, leaving him homeless and with no one to care for him.

The same boy, now a young man of 25 years, has taken the oath of office as Judge of the same Probate Court that only a few years ago sent him to a State institution. Official records will show that Fred M. Breen, who took this responsible office, is the youngest judge of probate in the United States.

A year following his disposition by the court, he was returned to Cadillac by the efforts of a man who desired to give the boy a home. He worked in factories, studied nights, desiring to show his appreciation to the man who had lifted him up when he was down and out. His wages were small, only 25 cents a day, and the work of carrying water to several hundred mill hands was not as pleasant as it might have been.

Being anxious to secure an education, he did chores for whomsoever would hire him, and by such efforts completed the course in the public schools, graduating as class valedictorian. Not being satisfied with a high school education, he took a course in Ferris Institute at Big Rapids, Mich. Securing a position as stenographer in a lawyer's office, he began to study law in his spare time, finally passing the examination for admission to the bar, with papers so good that he was excused from the oral examination. Without any solicitation on his part, Mr. Breen was elected Circuit Court Commissioner and is also a United States Commissioner.

Mr. Breen handled his own campaign. He did not berate his opponents, one being the sheriff and one another attorney. Walking through the county, he talked with every rural voter. At times he ate but two meals a day and sometimes slept in barns. For three months he campaigned and when the primary vote was counted he was high and dry with eleven hundred votes over either opponent.

Judge Breen's receipt for success such as his has been is a simple one: "Mind your own business, let people talk, hear when you listen, see when you look, and stick to a thing until you get there."

REMARKABLE CAREER OF BLIND PHYSICIAN

Dr. John Beazley of La Porte, Texas, Unique Character.

Beaumont, Texas—Dr. John Beazley, who died at La Porte, Texas, aged 77 years, was a remarkable character, out of the range of the ordinary intuition and touch commonly possessed by the blind.

He lost his eyesight by disease in 1867, just after graduating in medicine at New Orleans. Notwithstanding this handicap he succeeded in rearing a large family and amassing a fortune estimated at $500,000. So great was his intuition and sense of touch that he became an expert designer and builder of racing yachts, as well as an expert at handling them.

He could feel along a boat's hull and tell how many miles it could make in a certain wind. He designed and built "The Country Girl," the winner of all regattas of the South for many years, and he left many trophies in his home in the way of loving cups, won by boats built by him.

Dr. Beazley was also an accomplished pianist and violinist. He was a third cousin to George Washington. His father, Abner Beazley, came to Texas in 1840, during the days of the republic. He was a wealthy man in Mississippi, but a bank in which he was interested failed and he and Tamilton Washington came to Texas to rebuild their fortunes. The doctor spent most of his time, when not engaged in the practice of medicine—and he had a large and extensive practice in this vicinity—in boat building.

WOMEN ARE O. K. AS FARMERS

Two Hundred Thousand Score Success as Tillers of Soil.

Wichita, Kan.—Women are just as efficient farmers as men, Miss Pearl Mitchell, of Columbia, Mo., told the International Dry Farming Congress, in session here. Miss Mitchell has been a farmer seventeen years, and declared there are 200,000 successful women farmers in the United States. "The day has passed when the farmer is obliged to do the manual labor of his farm," she said. "Modern machinery has changed that. Farming is a work of brain nowadays, and women are just as capable as men in this respect."

GIRL GARDENERS EARN MONEY

They Net Goodly Sums by Cultivating the Tomato.

Tifton, Ga.—Six girls in the Tift County Canning Club each made 1,000 or more pounds of tomatoes on one-tenth of an acre. They are Jewell Ford, 1,429 pounds; Georgia Ridley, 1,442 pounds; Lola Bolton, 1,394 pounds; Ola Pitts, 1,300 pounds; Verdie Fletcher, 1,100 pounds, and Eleanor Shockley, 1,000 pounds.

Caroline Polla had the largest exhibit, with fifty articles. The girls netting the largest amount on their one-tenth acre are Lola Bolton, $48.73; Georgia Ridley, $45.54; Eleanor Shockley, $42.15.

MISTAKES OF FARMERS

Too Much Enterprise Often is Very Costly.

A farmer whose case was reported to the writer the other day seems to be making the mistake that is typical of some farmers. Instead of having, say, a couple of gasoline engines on the farm, which in good conscience to be a plenty, he has nine and on top of this has lately added an expensive oil tractor and plowing outfit. A fellow can have too many gasoline engines, just as he can have too many dogs or other things, and unless he has a pretty good sized bank account he's quite likely to have some hard sledding with such an outlay as this. —F. E. TRIGG.

Farm and Garden Notes

An old fruit-grower says that the pick is the best tool he ever used around apple trees when the ground has become too hard. He sinks the pick 8 or 10 inches into the soil and merely pries the dirt loose, and does not disturb the roots in this way.

Every farmer should plant trees in out-of-the-way places. Nut trees make good shade and are as easily grown as plain shade trees.

Land on which a cover crop has been previously grown and turned under will benefit the crop in increasing the humus content and conserving the moisture supply.

A Farm Corporation

A Minnesota farmer has incorporated his farm and divided a part of the stock among his children. They all try to make the corporation pay dividends and it is said that they are succeeding. He hopes that they will make enough by united effort to buy his stock when he wants to retire or has to do so. His plan is to keep them at home, interested in their work and successful in it. The board of directors sometimes outvotes the oldest and principal stockholder of the corporation but he thinks that any mistakes made in this way are a part of their education. Having a direct financial interest in everything they make few wrong decisions when matters come before them for settlement. The plan is not altogether new but is worth thinking about at least.

Engineer Explains Candle-Power.

"Although the term candle-power is comparatively common," says an expert illuminating engineer, "its meaning to those who seldom use it is largely a matter of conjecture."

"Candle-power is not a measure of the quantity of light emitted in all directions by a light source, but is a measure of the intensity of a light source in a particular direction. For example, a standard candle will give one candle-power in a horizontal direction. In measuring the candle-power of a lamp, the lamp is compared with a light source of known intensity. The light source of known intensity is called the standard. Candles made according to exact specifications were at one time used as standards; however, there are so many factors that may vary the intensity of the light given by a candle that standard lamps have been designed which are capable of very close adjustment. The standard unit of light intensity in this country and in several European countries is called the international candle-power. The original or primary standard is maintained by the bureau of standards at Washington.

"When a lamp is rated as giving a certain candle-power, the meaning is that the lamp will give light of an average intensity of that candle-power in a horizontal direction when the lamp is held in a vertical position. It is of interest to know that the ordinary large size tallow candle gives but about 0.9 candle-power. This at first seems a very low value when we compare the light of a candle to the light of an electric lamp of say 36-candle-power. This is due to the fact that when a candle is used the pupil of the eye expands, automatically adjusting itself to the low intensity of light, with the result that the light seems stronger than it really is."

There are 16 maples in the United States, most of them being eastern species. The most valuable, not only because of the product of its sap but also of the lumber, is sugar maple.

Remember that the time to ask a question of the institute speaker is while he is on the floor. And don't be backward about it—a good discussion is the life of the institute.

One may sometimes guess how a young man will turn out by noting the time he turns in.

Dust which is used for poultry should not be left too long in the houses.

Wisdom of the man who knows it all is valuable, but so is the hole in a doughnut.

Use in trying to grow trees unless you protect them from fire and cattle.

Fine feathers do not make fine birds but many a man's clothes make him look like a jay.

Egg production is not measured so much by the quantity as by the quality of the food.

Many incubator chicks are killed with kindness by being overfed and kept too warm.

State Plans Honor Roll for Citizens

Badges and Certificates for Brilliant Work in All Lines of Industry and Endeavor.

Topeka, Kan.—Now that the State Board of Administration, which has charge of the educational institutions of Kansas, is working on a plan to honor its citizens for any distinctive service to the commonwealth, it may not be out of order to mention a few cases where the proposed "Certificates of Recognition" might be justly bestowed, were the plan already in working order.

Kansas has a man who has grown the highest recorded number of bushels of corn to the acre in the country. He is S. G. Trent, of Hiawatha. In growing more than 100 bushels of corn per acre, Trent bred a variety of field corn that is particularly adaptable to the Kansas climate and soils.

J. M. Gilman, of Leavenworth, has bred an entirely new variety of corn that is almost, if not quite, the equal of the Trent corn.

These men would be entitled to Certificates of Recognition from the State of Kansas under the certificate plan.

The late Bernard Warkentin of Newton brought to Kansas the first bushel of the Russian hard red winter wheat from the Crimea. He would be entitled to one of the certificates if alive, because it is this same hard red wheat that has made Kansas a famous wheat state and the largest producer of wheat of any similar area in the world.

J. G. Freed of Scott City, has developed an entirely new variety of sorghum, particularly adaptable to the arid regions of the state. The government has recognized this new plant and calls it Freed Sorgho.

J. W. Lough of Scott City, was the first man to demonstrate that pump irrigation was practicable upon the tablelands of western Kansas, and thus was opened to settlement many thousands of acres of land regarded as worthless except for grazing.

G. Fred Miller of Topeka, demonstrated the value of sweet clover as a forage. All of these men will be "recognized."

There are a large number of horses, cattle, hog and sheep breeders in the state who have brought about wonderful development in their herds, becoming specialists along certain lines and authorities throughout the country.

Then Kansas has authors, such as William Allen White and Mrs. Margaret Hill McCarter, and a historian in Miss Anna Arnold, who wrote the Kansas history now used in the schools of the state. Kansas has several physicians who have done special work and who have received honorary degrees from schools and colleges in the various parts of the world.

There are several women conducting farms and stock ranches. Miss Mary Best, of Barber County, grows a special variety of wheat which makes the highest average yields for five-year periods in the state. Her entire crop is purchased by state agricultural colleges for experimental purposes for years in advance.

It is these persons who are doing things worth while in Kansas and along Kansas lines that the state seeks to honor by granting the certificates of recognition, which will show what they have done to merit them. The Legislature is to be asked to allow an appropriation for an insignia to be given with the certificates and to be worn like a fraternal badge or the medals granted by governments for unusual bravery.

BUYS FINE AUTO CAR WITH HIS SAVINGS

Minister Ignores Parter for Half a Century—Wife Cuts His Hair.

Ladoga, Ind.—Rev. T. A. Canady, pastor of the Methodist Church here, says that he is glad he has shaved for more than half a century, as he has saved enough money in this way to pay for the touring car which he has just bought.

He and his wife will use the new car to make the journey to Chattanooga, Tenn., where they will live with their daughter, unless by continued use of his razor and his wife's scissors he can acquire a good patch of Tennessee land during the next fifty years.

TINY SNAKE BLOCKS TRAFFIC

Harmless Reptile Draws a Big Crowd on New York Street.

New York—A woman who was about to board a street car at Third avenue and One Hundred and Forty-ninth st. happened to glance along the car tracks and saw a small garter snake slipping across the street. Her wild screams drew a large crowd, and after a few seconds of silence, in which everybody was afraid she was the only one who saw the snake, all realized that it was really there.

At once they gathered around the serpent to see what it was going to do; vehicles coming from all directions stopped, and Patrolman Devery of Traffic Squad E. was kept busy sorting out the people who wanted to see the snake from those whose only anxiety was to be on their way.

Meanwhile the snake, which seemed to dislike notoriety, was meekly trying to climb one of the pillars which support the elevated, but was unable to get up from the ground. Its efforts were interrupted by Patrolman Campbell of the Alexander Avenue Station, who put it in a shoe box and gave it to a small boy with strict injunction to take it to the Bronx zoo.

Chronic Constipation.

"About two years ago when I began using Chamberlain's Tablets I had been suffering for some time with stomach trouble and chronic constipation. My condition improved rapidly through the use of these tablets. Since taking them my health has been fine," writes Mrs. John Newton, Irving, N. Y. Obtainable everywhere. adv.

OUR JACKIES LEAD THE WORLD

Efficiency of American Sailors Inspired by Prizes and Promotion.

That the jackies of the American navy who are doing such valiant service in Mexico just now are the most efficient body of their kind in the world is the tribute paid them by the officers in command, and by authorities who have seen the men of other navies at work. It is claimed for them that their marksmanship is not equalled anywhere and that the wonderful improvement in their work with the big guns dates from the Spanish-American war.

The American navy is composed of 51,500 enlisted men and 3,435 officers. To the apprentice seaman at the training stations, where they are received after enlistment, are allowed $60 each for clothing and $16 a month for rations. When they go aboard ship they are made ordinary seamen and receive from $19 to $22 a month and rations. At each training station there is a school in which the young men get an elementary education. Since last January there have been similar schools on every ship, the idea being to fit the men for advancement through the various grades of petty officer and warrant officer. The real object of the navy is to increase the general efficiency of the men who make the navy a life career.

In addition to all this, 800 of the sailors are now taking courses in correspondence schools. During the next fiscal year, June, 1914, to June, 1915, the federal government will distribute among the men $42,200 in money, badges and trophies for expertness in gun practice, and therein, it is said, lies the reason for the unusual efficiency of the men in gun work. For years the navy has given prizes for rifle practice and small arm practice, but it was not until after the Spanish-American war that prizes were awarded for efficiency in great gun marksmanship.

According to the officers of the navy, the efficiency of the men with the monster guns has increased 1,000 per cent since 1898. The contests, which are held yearly, involve ships against ships, and the turret crew that makes the best record in the fleet at target practice, receives substantial rewards for excellency in gunnery. In addition, the men wear upon their uniforms the letter "E," which is also painted upon the turret, on the guns and during steaming exercises on the funnel of the winning ship. The men are said to be exceedingly proud of such an honor and are the envy of the men on all the other ships.

The testimony of the officers of the navy before the house naval committee recently showed that in their opinion the navy for several years has been getting a better class of men than formerly, and that the men seem to be much better satisfied with their treatment. In 1908 the desertion amounted to 9 per cent of the number enlisted, and now it is but 3 1/2 per cent. The percentage of men re-enlisting in 1913 was 35, which is the greatest in the history of the navy.

The navy is being recruited at the rate of 1800 men a month. It was frequently said in the past that men joined the navy because they were out of work, but this has been disproved by records kept by officers. Every man who enters the navy is asked why he wants to enlist, and from the answers given the last few months most of them gave as their reason the opportunity for foreign travel. The next reason given was that they joined upon the recommendation of friends in the navy. The third reason was to learn a trade, and the reason given by the fewest, 318 out of 5381, was because they were out of work.

Secretary Daniels, who is enthusiastic over his task of directing the big fighting machine, has a plan in view that will make the navy even more attractive for enlisted men. It has been asserted that the enlisted man does not have an opportunity for advancement. Mr. Daniels has asked congress to authorize him to select 25 men from the navy not more than 23 years old, who, after examination, shall be eligible to entrance to the naval academy.

Billy Wetz, manager for the Greencastle Orchard company, is today unloading a car load of fruit trees at the company warehouse on the Van-dalia tracks. The trees, 42,000 of them, are being brought to the square and placed in the Williamson room on the west side of the square, where they will be sold. On account of the great quality purchased, Mr. Wetz is able to sell them at a very low price. The trees are said by fruit men to be the finest lot of young trees ever seen here.

Dr. M. H. Young and Dr. Luther Hirt, two of the county's best known physicians and surgeons, have combined their offices, which will be maintained in the Brazil Trust company building in the future, where Dr. Young has been located. The physicians have been working together in many cases and have decided that their combined office would be a material benefit to them both.—Brazil Times.—Dr. Hirt is a former Greencastle man. He is the son of Alfred Hirt of this town.

The joys of their boyhood days brought to memory by the newspaper notices of the kite flying contest to be given by the boys of the grade schools on Saturday, April 3, caused Robert Allen and George Christie to become sufficiently enthusiastic Wednesday afternoon to build them three box kites and go to Sunset hill just to see if the blamed things would fly. The "boysmen" linked the three kites together and up they went. The kites soared high and the wind brought them almost over the public square. Many persons down town saw the kites. It is said that all went well until the kitefliers attempted to get their aircrafts down. Their troubles began. The kites driven by the stiff breeze refused to descend peacefully and only after more than an hour's tedious work did the "boys" manage to get them down. But they had a lot of fun, they say.

Don't miss the opportunity to get nursery stock this week at prices so low you'll be surprised. See Wetz.

Mallory Hats

THIS is the time of year to "spruce up" a little—to lay aside your old clothes and get into some new ones.

A new suit and an old hat don't go well together, so while you're getting the new things, don't forget the hat—and be sure it's a MALLORY.

We are showing the new Spring "Mallory" models and you can depend on it that the styles are correct.

"Mallory" Hats are "Cravenette" Weatherproof—an exclusive feature which keeps them fresh looking—another reason why your hat should be a "Mallory."

The fire department was called to the home of Miss Hattie Luetke at the corner of Locust and Berry streets Wednesday evening at 6:45 o'clock, to extinguish a blaze which started on the roof from sparks from a chimney. The firemen used only the chemical apparatus to quench the flames. A small hole was burned in the roof. The fire wagons went south on College avenue to Berry street and turned east to the Luetke home, to avoid passing over the streets which are torn up by the sewer contractors.

The funeral of John Y. Young, age 99 years, whose death occurred at his home in Roachdale on Tuesday, was held at the home Wednesday. Mr. Young, perhaps the oldest man in Putnam county. Had he lived until the sixth day of May he would have been 100 years old. Mr. Young came to Putnam county from Kentucky when a child and had spent the last 68 years of his life on a farm in Franklin township. The deceased is survived by four daughters. He was a life long Republican and a member of the Methodist church. Mr. Young was seriously ill last winter, but recovered, and for some time it was thought he would live to see his hundredth birthday anniversary. His death was sudden, as he was in his usual health Sunday.

Interest in the mock national political convention which is to be held at the high school building Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock has increased. The students of the Civics classes will be the participants in the convention. The committee appointed to prepare the platform, which will be adopted at the convention, has been unable to agree on several measures. Six students are members of the committee and as yet they have been unable to agree on the advisability of including a plank in the platform which would favor woman's suffrage. The committee is equally divided and a real "squabble" featured a meeting of the students today.
